

OUR BOUNTIFUL HERITAGE
Compiled by Donna L. Thurgood Patterson

Life is looking forward,
But somewhere along the way
We suddenly find that we look back--
It may happen any day.
And we learn to our joy or sorrow,
In happiness or tears,
That we have been making memories
All through the years!
Zara Sabin

The value of taking a look back is to learn to appreciate the rich heritage that has been left to us and to resolve to leave to others a similar rich and valuable heritage.

The word BOUNTIFUL in the dictionary gives meanings such as: in large measure, plentiful, abundant, giving freely, generous, graciously liberal. These terms describe Our Heritage.

Recently in a newspaper article a leader of a nation made a statement about how she tries thinking of how the decisions she makes now will affect her people 7 generations down the road. Some of you who are reading this history are 7 generations away from those first pioneer ancestors of Thurgoods who left their motherland and came to this country, eventually settling in what is now known as Bountiful.

To help us understand and allow us to appreciate our heritage a little more I am including some history of where these people came from, what conditions they lived under, and what they had to do once they got here.

The land where our ancestors settled in Northern Utah, used to be covered by Lake Bonneville. This lake covered a very large area for many, many years. The evidence of its vastness still exists today.

The Davis County area, where the Thurgoods settled, was first inhabited by the Indians and it is believed they were known as Basket Makers of the south. It was kind of a no mans land for the most part. Several tribes were south of here and some north but this area was sparsely inhabited.

On a journey to this territory in 1776 Father Escalante camped on the shores of Utah Lake and could have been the first discoverer of the Great Salt Lake as well.

In 1811 Jim Bridger and others were in this area.

In the winter of 1825-26 there were several trappers and Indians who gathered in the Ogden region. When the gathering was complete there were a total of 2,500 people who spent the winter there. They trapped and hunted in the lower parts of Weber County.

In 1841 a man by the name of Osbourne Russel traveled through the Davis Co. area and made the observation that there were several springs and streams and with little labor or expense felt the area could be used for farming. These springs and streams were valuable for the water they supplied, but when the early saints arrived, they posed some other problems; particularly that of travel. It was almost impossible to get from one area of the county to the other by wagon because of all the washed out areas, gullies, etc. Travel between Salt Lake and Ogden was not easy.

In 1843 John C. Fremont was headed for California and explored this area trying to find an outlet from the Great Salt Lake to the California coast. He did some surveying, followed the Weber River and hunted and fished along the way. He built a fort for his men and their provisions near the present town of Warren. When he could not find the outlet he hoped would be there, he named the island he was on Disappointment Island. Later it was named Fremont Island.

The north part of Davis County was once a clear field, an open space without trees. It was rolling sandridge hills and was barren to travel. It was waterless blow sand and was considered to be impossible to cultivate. It was known by various names. First it was called the Basin, by the early explorers, then The Range, Sandridge, Summit, Muskrat Springs, Starvation Flats, etc., and eventually Clearfield, Clinton, West Point, Hooper, Syracuse etc. People called it the Range because when the pioneers first settled here they took their cattle and left them in this area to feed in the winter time. They called it the Sandridge because of the hills of fine sand which were left from the backwash of old Lake Bonneville and it blew ...Did It Blow! Many of the grandchildren remember this...you could not keep it out of your homes. No matter how tight the windows might be if the wind was blowing you could depend on a fine covering of sand to be deposited on everything throughout the house. This sand also made travel difficult. It was like driving through deep snow. I am sure some of the older grandchildren remember this also.

The lake was higher in those days and the snow deeper. In fact, in the year 1855, it is recorded that the snow got ten feet deep and many of the cattle on the range died.

Uncle Richard Hamblin's family were some of the first settlers of this area in North Davis County. About 1866, Levi Hammon and his wife were some of the first settlers of the Hooper area.

Bountiful, where our early ancestors first settled, was the 2nd Mormon community settled by the pioneers. On September 27, 1847 Perrigrine Sessions was sent by President Brigham Young to find more area where the cattle could spend the winter. He went north and found the area which would later be known as Bountiful. He built the first log house in this area. He with a few others were the first ones to plow the area in the spring of 1848. The ground was parched but rich and near by were springs and so was a good location for water supply.

In the Spring of 1848/49, the first ward was created in Bountiful. In the census record of the year 1853, the population of Davis Co. was 1,598 people. Centerville had 194, Kayward 417, North Canyon 574, North Cottonwood 413. As the communities grew, land was allotted to each man.

Some of the names which Bountiful was known by in the beginning were Sessions Settlement, North Mill Creek Canyon or Canyon, and Stoker. Bountiful was the name of one of the prominent cities in the Book of Mormon and finally that was the name given to that area. This was in the year 1855.

Life wasn't easy in those days, as we have it now. Money and clothing were hard to come by and as a result they did a lot of their own weaving and spinning. Nothing was wasted. Clothing was handed down from one person to another and patched till the patches would not hold any longer. Shoes were made from cowhide. It was a common practice for someone to kill a beef and share with the neighbors, then the neighbor would kill one and share with the other neighbors. This was done because there were not that many ways to preserve the meat and it also made it possible for people to have fresh meat on hand most of the time. Laundry soap was made from the left over fat. A broom in those days was a luxury. In 1867 President Heber C. Kimball advised the saints not to plant broom corn, and sugar cane together in the city lots. It destroyed the molasses crop as well as the straw for the brooms. Even in those days they would try to store a year's supply of flour and food for the winters.

The early pioneers had some problems with the Indians. One individual remembers as a child there were thousands of Indians in the area. He had seen as many as five thousand at a time pass by. Brigham Young advised the people to feed them and be kind to them.

They also had problems with the animals and insects in the area. There were many wolves and they would kill their only means of transportation, milk, eggs, and working in the fields. The people were paid $2.00 for each wolf they killed. This practice was still taking place into the 1900's. There were many problems with the grasshoppers. In 1867 a company of men were appointed to destroy the grasshoppers. They dug a trench in the ground, and then scattered straw in the trench and drove as many grass-hoppers as they could into the trench. Then they set fire to the straw. This proved very successful. They then made a trap out of wire and this was stretched across the mountain streams so they could catch the ones floating down the stream. They destroyed thousands of them in this manner. The trap they had would hold from 10 to 12 bushels. Uncle Tom Thurgood, William O's brother, told in his history about the many grasshoppers and trying to get rid of them. He said they would dig a trench at one end of the field. They took a rope stretched across the field and would go down the field with the rope touching the heads of grain. When they got to the end of the field where the trench was they would have many thousands of hoppers gathered. They would get them in the trench and bury them then start the process over again. By following this method for a few days they were able to save part of their crops.

Our first ancestors to arrive in Bountiful were William Osborn Gorringe and Fannie Burgess. Their daughter Emily L. Gorringe, who married John Kynaston, was the last of their children to be born in England. She was their 5th child and was born in 1854. Their next child Eliza was born in Bountiful in 1856. Their sister Mary Jane was born in 1857 and tells a little about this family in her history.

When Mary Jane was three weeks old her parents moved into an adobe house that was their own, but unfinished. There were terrible east winds and they only had quilts to put on the windows. The wind would blow the fire out of the fireplace and start the floor on fire. Her mother was there with the children by herself and had to go outside and get snow to put the fire out. When she was three years old they sold the home. It was used as the school building for many years after that. This is where Mary Jane first went to school. She also explained how they used candles for light and all the cooking was done on the fireplace. They would put a large piece of wood on the coals at night and cover it with ashes so they would have live coals in the morning. If their coals went out they would have to go to the neighbors to get a few live coals. They would do their wash in the creek. The women would heat water by the creek in brass kettles over campfires. She states "I was very thankful for my parents for the interest they always had in me as I grew to womanhood. I felt that my father was outstanding. I thought at times he was very strict but as I grew older and had responsibilities of parenthood, I know he was a wise parent."

Our next ancestor to arrive in Bountiful was John Kynaston. He came with his first wife from England between 1855 & 1856. They spent a short period of time in New York, then arrived in the Bountiful area between 1856-1862. Emily L. Gorringer was 15 years old when she became John Kynaston's second wife in 1869. Their 5th child Eliza Jane Kynaston became the wife of William O. Thurgood. John Kynaston was one of the leaders in the community of Bountiful. He was one of the first Sunday School Superintendents in Davis Co., He traveled from Bountiful on the south to South Hooper on the north to visit each ward Sunday School. Sometimes this was done by horseback and sometimes horse and cart. He was a Patriarch and gave Grandpa & Grandma Thurgood their blessings.

Thomas Briggs lived in Bountiful during the same time as our great-grandparents were raising their children. He says in his history that at this time the women went to the fields and gleaned the wheat. By doing this some families were able to get all of their winter's bread. One man was allowed only to cut two acres of grain and this was done by cradle. He also gives some history about the Kynaston family. In March 1900 he states "I attended the funeral of Patriarch John Kynaston. The tabernacle was filled to overflowing." In Nov 1900 he says "Smallpox was very bad in the community, and Sister Kynaston's child died. It was a very sorrowful time for her, as she had two children sick with the pox and no one was allowed to go into the house. She also had lost her husband just recently."

John Kynaston & Emily Gorringer had 15 children. The last one was born in June after John died and was the child that died in Nov. 1900. Five of their children died very young. All their graves are lined up by their parents. It gave me a feeling of love and great respect when I saw those graves. A very interesting afternoon could be had by going to the Bountiful Cemetery and finding the graves of the Thurgood's, Kynaston's, and Gorringer families. I never realized until my visit to that cemetery that

THE NORTH GERMAN LLOYD'S NEW STEAM-SHIP
"HUDSON."

THIS magnificent steam-ship, built by the eminent iron shipbuilding firm of Messrs. Palmer, Allport, and Co., at Jarrow, on the Tyne, is the first completed of two sister ships, the Hudson and the Weser built for the North German Lloyd's, a company under whose auspices the twin vessels will run in the passenger trade between Bremen and New York; and hence their names, the Hudson and the Weser, to correspond with the two rivers with which the commerce and history of those cities are so closely identified.

The Hudson has just left our shores for her first voyage between the two countries. This enormous vessel, which is of 3000 tons register, and of symmetrical proportions and completeness of equipment, as well as of size and capacity, not to be surpassed, and scarcely equalled, in the most famous shipbuilding marts of England or the world, is, in length of keel 318 feet, and over all 345 feet; width 40 feet, and depth 33 feet. In the way of comparison, it may be noted that the Hudson is longer by 100 feet than the Royal Albert, and about 80 than the Marlborough, two famed three-deckers of the Royal Navy; she is longer than the Great Britain, and on a par with the most famous screw-steamers afloat. The machinery is by Messrs. J. B. and C. M. Palmer. The nominal horse-power of the engines is 746, the indicated horse-power being 2600; and to put this powerful machinery in motion there are four boilers, with twenty-four furnaces. The cylinder of the Hudson is 90 inches diameter, being six inches more than the cylinder of the Leviathan, which is 84 inches; and the screw-shaft is 125 feet long, and 16 inches in diameter. In this vessel accommodation is provided for about seven hundred and forty persons, in the following classification:—First class, 70; second class, 100; third, 450; crew, 130. The estimated rate of the vessel is fifteen miles an hour.

The saloon immediately below the deck in the after part of the vessel, which is supplied with ample table accommodation, and cushions luxurious to a degree, is fitted up with maple and rosewood, and has on the paneling, along the sides of this marine palace, paintings of American and European (chiefly German) scenery, by Mr. Lawrie, of Glasgow, and the cornices, &c., faced with gold. This saloon is seventy feet long and forty feet wide, including the sleeping apartments on each side. Below the first-class saloon, and only second to it in splendour, though scarcely inferior to it in comfort, is the second-class saloon and corresponding side apartments, which are adapted to accommodate one hundred passengers, the first-class saloon being fitted for seventy. Both are lofty, airy, and well lighted from the sides of the vessel, and, the upper saloon more especially, from above. The engines occupy the centre of the vessel, with on each side accommodation for the crew; and in the fore part of the vessel is the accommodation for third-class passengers or emigrants, to whose convenience and wants every possible consideration is also paid.

many people from the community of Bountiful were the first settlers of the Syracuse, West Point and Clearfield area. Just standing in one spot you can see tombstones of Willey, Session, Smedley, Holt, Knighton, Easthope, Burningham, Cook, Holbrook, Call, Tolman, Rampton, Barlow, Stoker, Waite, and Moss. Several of these same family names are in the early records of the North Canyon Ward.

The Thurgood family came to Utah in the early 1860's. There were four brothers and two sisters in the family. The four brothers, Thomas, William, Samuel, and John, along with one sister, Elizabeth, all came to be with the saints. Their father had died in 1849. Their mother and Sarah, the youngest sister, stayed in England. Since other family members down the line did not keep in contact with Sarah, we never knew when her family died. Thus the temple work for them could not be done till they were 110 years old. We are in the process now of completing that work for them. I do not know when the rest came to Utah exactly except for our Grandfather Thomas and his wife Sarah Ann Banks. Shortly after their marriage, which took place at St. George, Camberwell, Surrey, England, in the year 1860, they heard about the gospel, listened to the missionaries and joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day-Saints. There were many people in England at the time who were ready to hear the missionaries. Thomas' brother William was a missionary in England and was instrumental in bringing many people into the church there. He kept a diary of his activities which is very interesting to read.

I have thought many times of the decision made by Thomas & Sarah Ann to leave their homeland and come to America. Thomas knew he would be leaving his mother & sister; and Sarah would be leaving her parents, brothers and sisters. They would also be leaving friends, the scenes of their childhood days maybe forever, and in this case it was forever. Think about this! How many of us today would have that type of courage and faith. Thomas wrote poetry. He wrote a poem at this time to his wife Sarah. It talked about coming to Zion and he asks Sarah..."Will you come with me Sarah to Zion". And so the decision was made. Thomas with his young wife Sarah and their first born Elizabeth, about 6 weeks old, left England for New York on the 3 June 1864. They were on the ship "Hudson", which was named for the Hudson River in New York, and was built in 1858. There were 604 passengers from England, 75 from Scotland, 103 from Switzerland, 60 from Holland, 10 from France, 1 from Denmark, and 10 from America making a total of 863 people on board. Most of them were members of the Church coming to Zion. It took them six weeks to make the trip. When they arrived at New York the Civil War was being fought. In order to escape some of the turmoil of that war they went up into Canada then down to St. Joseph, Missouri. In St. Joseph they joined other Saints in Captain Hydes Company and started by wagon train to cross the plains for Zion or what is now known as Salt Lake City, Utah. Thomas walked every step of the way and Sarah Ann part of the way. During the journey Sarah Ann had a wagon run over her. She was not seriously hurt but had to ride in a wagon for a long time after that. While en route they were attacked by Indians. Captain Hyde gave out the word that they were not to fight them, but to feed them. The Indians then told them about a band on the war path and how they could go to avoid them, which they did and no one was harmed. They endured many hardships, and in order to have food for their animals it sometimes meant a long days journey. They arrived in Salt Lake on about 1 Oct 1864.

Thomas Briggs tells in his history, "In 1864 when my family crossed the plains to come to Utah it took them 3 months. In 1882 when he crossed the plains again to go on a mission by rail it took him 52 hours and cost him $30.00." A lot of progress made in just a few years.

After arriving in Salt Lake they went through many trials. They, along with the other early saints, had to do their own spinning, weaving, and make all their clothes by hand. Molasses was used as a sweetener. Sugar was very scarce and cost $25.00 a sack. Thomas Thurgood was a gunsmith by trade, but when they first arrived in Salt Lake he went to work as a gardener. They lived in the upstairs of a two story adobe house located about 10th South and 5th East. They were in the 2nd Ward in Salt Lake. Here their second child Thomas James was born in 1866. About 1867 they moved to a three room adobe house. This was located in Bountiful, on a farm owned by William, Thomas' brother.

Thomas and his brothers were very industrious people. William Thurgood owned and operated the first store in West Bountiful. Later on he moved to East Bountiful where he organized and managed a co-op store until his death in 1882. This William was known as Red Will and also worked as a mail carrier at one time. In 1867, another of his brothers, John Thurgood, was hired as one of the school teachers in Bountiful. This he did and was paid $30.00 a month. He also started a dry-goods and grocery store in Bountiful. It was located south of the Bountiful Tabernacle. After his death in 1893, his wife sold the goods out of the store and converted it into the first Ice Cream parlor in Bountiful.

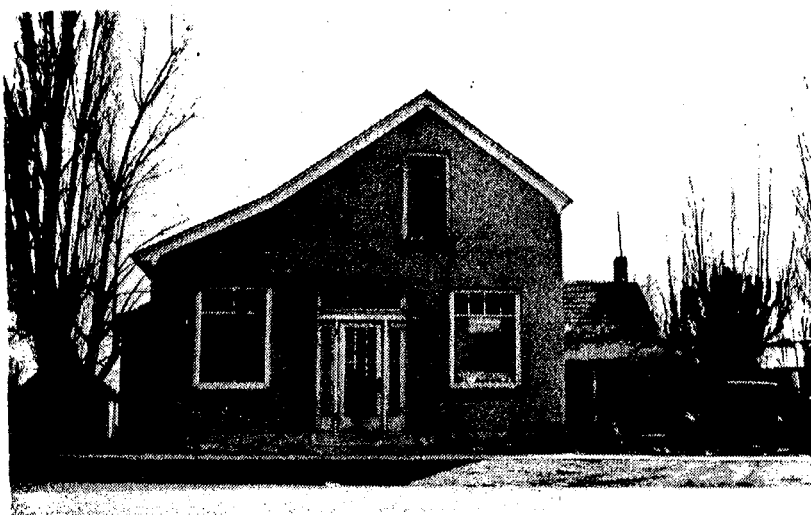

Thomas, himself, helped build the Union Pacific Railroad through Weber Canyon and Davis County. Uncle Tom said that one of his earliest remembrances was the railroad being built through their property. The person who owned the property was hired to build the grade and he remembered going with his father out in the field to build this grade. The rail cars arrived from Ogden to Woods Cross in Jan 1870. This was a great blessing in their lives. They were now able to communicate and travel. Because of all the washed out areas the roads at that time were mainly through the mountains and very hard to travel.

In 1877 William, John, and Thomas Thurgood bought 320 acres of property up in the Syracuse, West Point area. Uncle Tom records coming up with his father and rode an A shaped harrow to drag the sage brush in piles to burn so they could plant corn on the ground they broke up. After getting the plowing and planting done, they went back to Bountiful and worked the rest of the summer in taking care of the crops there. They had 10 acres of ground there. They traveled back and forth doing this until the spring of 1884 when Uncle Tom got married and moved to Syracuse.

In the year 1879 there was a diptheria epidemic in the area. By this time Thomas and Sarah Ann had four more children; Samuel John, born 1868; Sarah Ann, born 1871; William O, born 1875; Caroline Eliza, born 1878; and then their last child George Banks, was born a year later in 1880. The home where William O. was born existed until about 1987 when it was torn down. George was not quite two years old when his mother, Sarah Ann, died. Thus Thomas, like his mother was left to raise 7 children alone. The older daughters helped and Thomas worked to hold his small family together. They all grew to adulthood. Thomas had a full and busy life. Thomas died in 1898 at the age of 63. Following is one of the poems written by Thomas Thurgood when John Thomas Thurgood, his grandson died. John Thomas was the son of Thomas James and Elizabeth Regena Stoker Thurgood.

BABY THURGOOD

Farewell my little darling babe
Your stay with us was short
You have gone to join the angels
In your father's Heavenly Court.

You left your father's presence
A few short days ago
Death the monster came with its King
And struck its fatal blow.

Your little body could not stand
The shafts that Satan used
Your noble spirit was too pure
For the wayward wicked world.

Then Brother and Sister Thurgood
Do not weep and mourn
For your little darling
Will come forth on the resurrection morn.

Then when the trumpet of God
Shall sound and the dead in Christ come forth
Your little darling then will be Clothed in Robes of Righteousness.

William O Thurgood was not quite 7 years old in 1882 when his mother died. His older sister Elizabeth was the only mother that William remembers much about. When his brother Thomas James was married in 1885 and moved to Syracuse, he spent a good deal of time at Syracuse working on the farm. Aunt Ethel states in her history, "William came to Syracuse as a young man to work on the farm of Alma Stoker and did his work very well. Aunt Kate Stoker was very near and dear to him, giving him motherly advice and treating him as she did a son."

William O. was a self made man. What education he had he got at Bountiful, but he never learned to read or write. He could only write his name. His signature on business papers was done with firm large letters. He had the other person fill out the check and then he would sign it. His lack of formal education did not hinder his ability to use his head. Many have stated he could figure numbers quicker in his head than most people could figure them on paper. And his lack of education certainly never hindered his ability to acquire land or animals. He could tell a person how big a stack of hay was, how much an animal weighed, etc., very quickly and usually was no more than a few pounds off. Because of his lack of education he always encourage his children and grandchildren to acquire a good one and in his Patriarical Blessing he was told, "Thou shalt be a blessing to thy fathers house. For thou hast a work to perform in this probation. Therefore seek the Lord in humble prayer, and these duties shall be made known thee in the own due time of the Lord. Thou art blest with a companion that shall be a blessing unto thee, Yea, a stay and a staff unto thee through life. Thou shall be blest with a posterity which shall be intelligent and do a good work in their day and generation. Thy name shall go down from generation to generation, and have power to do a good work upon the earth. I bless thee with wisdom that thou might understand to gather things around and to aaccumulate the blessings of the earth. I feel to bless thee with houses and lands, with flocks and with herds, and with the good things of Zion." These blessings have been fulfilled and are still being fulfilled. He has certainly been blessed with a very intelligent posterity.

In 1891 the first school was built in the Syracuse area. It was known as the Little Red Brick Schoolhouse was built on the Peter Christensen farm by Gailey's Corner. The enrollment never exceeded 50 students. Each room was heated by a pot bellied stove. In 1909 this school was used as the High School. It served the high school population of Syracuse, West Point, Clinton, part of Clearfield and part of South Hooper. This school started out as a 1 room grade school and later 3 more rooms were added. By 1914 the population of Davis County had increased to about 10,000 people, 285 of which were high school age. That was the first year Davis High School was opened. In 1915 the present grade school was built. It has been added to and changed over the years but still exists on the same site. Many of the Thurgoods posterity have attended these schools.

During the time period when the Thurgoods first came to the Syracuse area it was part of South Hooper. The Syracuse road was the dividing line. Everything north was in South Hooper, and everything south was in Kaysville.

There was a small spring of water on the farm of Wm. H. Miller. Very little drinking water was available elsewhere, so as the early settlers came they settled near his home in the western part of Syracuse. The early pioneers raised a lot of fruit, hay, grain, vegetables and livestock. It was not until 1890 that they had water in the area for irrigation purposes.

Some of these ancestors may have spent some of their "little" relaxation time at the Syracuse Bathing Resort. This was built by Fred Keisel of Ogden. In 1888 it was the largest resort in Utah. It stood on the banks of the Great Salt Lake west of Syracuse. It was located close to where the road used to go to Antelope Island. It was in operation from 1887-1894. The Union Pacific Railroad built a spur to the resort so people from Ogden and Salt Lake could get there. The train track had a Y so the train could turn around. Besides the train bringing the loads of people, the roads were often lined for miles with wagons and white-top buggies. There were bath houses, 74 of them, each unit being supplied with a shower, and there was a pier. There was also a 125 x 75 foot dance pavilion that was lighted by coal-oil lamps. Dance music was furnished by orchestras from Ogden, Salt Lake or locally. One main attraction was shade trees. It also had a merry-go-round that was run by a horse, a refreshment stand, and swings for the children. On opening day July 4, 1887, there were 13 train cars filled with people packed into the resort. They estimated there were over 2,000 people there. About 60,000 people visited the resort the first season.

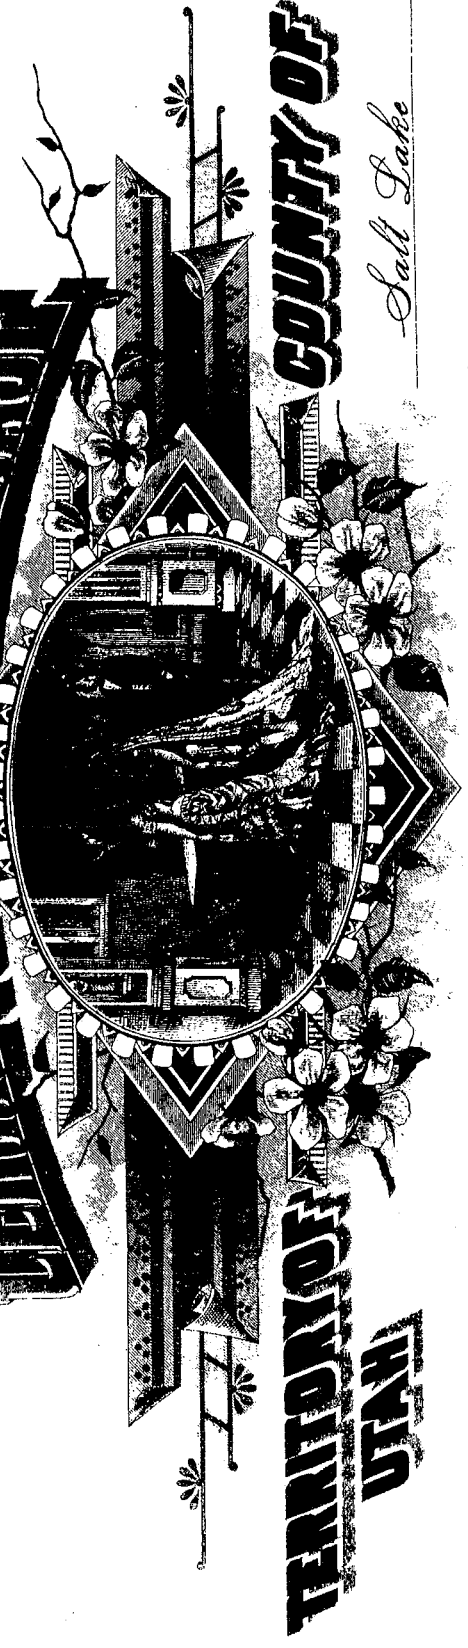

As stated before, there was little relaxation time. Many of our relatives worked in the second canning factory to be erected in Davis County. It was built in 1893. This was the Barnes Canning Company and was in operation for many years. In 1895, the Syracuse Ward was organized, and in 1898, a large one-room brick building, located on the present site of the oldest L.D.S. church building, was built.

Eliza Jane Kynaston and William O Thurgood grew up not far from each other in Bountiful. William was a big man. He always wore white shirts and nice Stetson hats. He had a likable personality and enjoyed the association of brothers, sisters, and neighbors. He made friends easily wherever he went. Eliza Jane was a small lady like Uncle Arnold's daughter Marjorie. Her facial features were like Aunt Rhea & Reta. Aunt Rhea describes them in this way, "Father and Mother made a beautiful couple. He so tall and straight, she small and dainty. Father was light complected and Mother was dark. Both were very ambitious always doing something. It seems as though they were successful at everything they set out to do. Father was a very ambitious man. I have had many tell me how they had gone to Father for good advice and got it. They made everyone welcome in their home." William O & Eliza Jane were married in the Salt Lake Temple on the 19 Dec 1895.

Eliza Jane was very close to her family. After Grandpa Kynaston died, Grandma Kynaston would hook up her buggy with some hay on the back and head from Bountiful to Syracuse to visit. The children would see her coming and run to tell their mother. Aunt Ethel describes her mother as, "the kindest, sweetest, most loving person to everyone. She was a wonderful wife, mother and homemaker. Her firm and abiding testimony of the gospel was planted in the hearts of her children through the wonderful teachings we received from her in our home. I remember how hard she worked. Three big cooked meals a day. She was a beautiful cook. I can never remember not having a hired man. A Mr. Young lived with us for abt. eight years. Aunt Carrie Esthopes sons Lawrence and Haven lived with us all through the summer months. Eight to ten people were always sitting down to the table three times a day. I remember especially in the summer time with the heat beating through the west window and mother had to put another stick in the fire to cook a hearty supper for the family. In the good old days we ate more cooked food than today. Mother had to get out of bed early enough on a hot July morning to build a good fire then cook stacks of ham, eggs, hash brown potatoes, hot cakes and cooked cereal. Then she would go to the cellar which was half a block from the rest of the house to get some milk, hoping it would not have soured since being taken from the family cows the night before. The thick yellow cream would have risen to the top of the milk pan and if she hurried she could get it in the house on the table and into her family before it clabbered. She heated water in a reservoir at the side of her stove and not all members of the family could bathe in warm water on the same day. You think you hate to iron in the summer. Well consider Mother. No nylon garments clothed her family nor cottons to drip dry requiring little or no ironing, no indeed! Mother stood near enough to her hot stove to reach out and change the flat iron whenever the one she was using got cool. The only way for mother to go any place was to harness the horse and back him to the buggy." Eliza Jane was very modest. When she was pregnant no one knew babies were to be born. She would sit up nights making the layettes by hand. Following is a poem Aunt Rhea had in her history about her mother.

My Mother's Apron Strings

I have sung the oken bucket
And wore fathers barnyard hat,
Ive turned the old hand washer
And applauded at this and that,
But theres one familiar object
That's in my memory more,
It's that checkered gingham apron
That my mother wore.
Tis the humble things that hold us,
Tis to them the memories cling,
When the later year's unfold us
And we dream of bygone springs.
When my thoughts turn way back yonder
To my childhoods home once more
Most of all I muse and ponder
On the apron mother wore.
I'm all tied up in ventures
Into wordly sort of things
But the ties that bind me tightest
Are my mother's apron strings.

Eliza Jane Kynaston Thurgood was given her patriarchal blessing by her father in 1897. These are a few of the things that were told to her. "Thou shall be a blessing unto thy partner in life. Thou shall be enabled to be a comfort unto him not only in this life but throughout all eternity... I bless thee with wisdom to administer the holy influence and power of the Priesthood which rest upon thee in connection with thy husband. Thou shall be blest with posterity and power to train them in the ways of the Lord... He will bless the labor of thy hands...I now seal thee up unto the day of redemption to come forth with thy posterity and have part in the first resurrection to be a queen and a princess over them."

William O & Eliza Jane's first child William Leo was born in Bountiful then shortly thereafter they moved to Syracuse. Their second child, Hazel Emily, was also born in Bountiful. The rest of the children Sarah Rhea, Reta, John Arnold, Ethel, and Eldon were all born in Syracuse. Aunt Rhea & Aunt Hazel told some about their early family life from an interview done several years ago...."After moving to Syracuse, we lived in the one room log home for quite a number of years. There were very few homes and people living in Syracuse in those days. Finally father acquired a large farm about a mile west from where we were then living, across the street north from Walter Steed's farm. Father had a beautiful large red brick home built there. Uncle Joseph Kynaston, mother's brother, did most of the carpenter work. This is where we were raised from young children and went to Sunday School, Priesthood meetings and other activities. The grade school we went to was located where it is now just north of the Rampton's farm. We also attended North Davis High School located on Gailey's Corner.

"In those days it was really difficult getting places. We had to travel by horse and buggy. There were no cement or gravel roads, just dirt and mud ones. Very few cars traveled the roads. They were terrible to try and get places on. We'd start to school and usually get about there and mire into the mud over the buggy wheels. We'd get out, unharness the horse, and walk the rest of the way to school, nearly freezing before we got there. Two or three miles drive was quite a distance and effort with the conditions of the roads."

Aunt Rhea also wrote..." One time I felt sorry for the horse because the mud was so deep, so I unhitched it and rode it to school leaving the buggy there. During the day there was a blizzard and it froze the buggy in the mud. It was there till the spring thaw came. Being the good natured father that my dad was he never said a cross word to me only why did you do that. After explaining that I felt sorry for the horse, the matter was dropped. I never pass the spot in the road that I don't recall that incident. Father always provided a horse and buggy for us and the neighbors to get to school. He was anxious for his children to attend school regularly and get our education. We were also taught to attend church regularly and pay our tithes and offerings, to pray for guidance and thank our Father in Heaven for the blessings we received each day. Never can I remember eating before the blessing was said.

"Father was blessed with good health and he worked hard with little rest for weeks at a time. He loved to till the soil. We had a large farm and a lot of cattle, horses, cows, pigs, and chickens. Father would feed about a hundred horses for people winter and summer. The children were always kept plenty busy helping with the chores. They were never idle. We had to feed the cattle, and milk cows before going to school and do other jobs morning and night. When our crops were to be planted and when harvesting time came we were helping with them. There was always a job for each and every child in the family to do. Mother would try to have supper ready when we returned home from school. Then it would be late before we were finished with the feeding and the milking. It seemed like we were never through before midnight and then we'd come in and sit in front of the heater to get warm and have some apples, popcorn, oranges or bananas to snack on.

"Our parents were very strict about us not keeping long hours when we went to dances or such. We would harness a team of horses up to the bobsleigh with lots of clean straw in the bottom of the sleigh. Father would warm some bricks so we could place our feet on them and keep warm. Then we would stretch canvas over the top of the sleigh. We would go down to West Point or Hooper for dances. The West Point Hall was just one large room and there we spent some very enjoyable evenings dancing. Young and old had a real fine time."

William O had lots of horses and knew how to handle them very well. He absolutely loved good horse flesh. He went back east to get his horses. Most of his horses were Persian and a few Belgian. They were the big stallions like the Clydesdales. Many people in the valley had horses that were bred from his stock. Different ones took his studs around to breed other horses. They went all over as far north as Logan, Morgan, and Wyoming. He had 5 or 6 stallions sent all over this area. He was paid $7.00 or $10.00 a season to breed their horses. Grandpa William O would do everything he could to make a dollar.

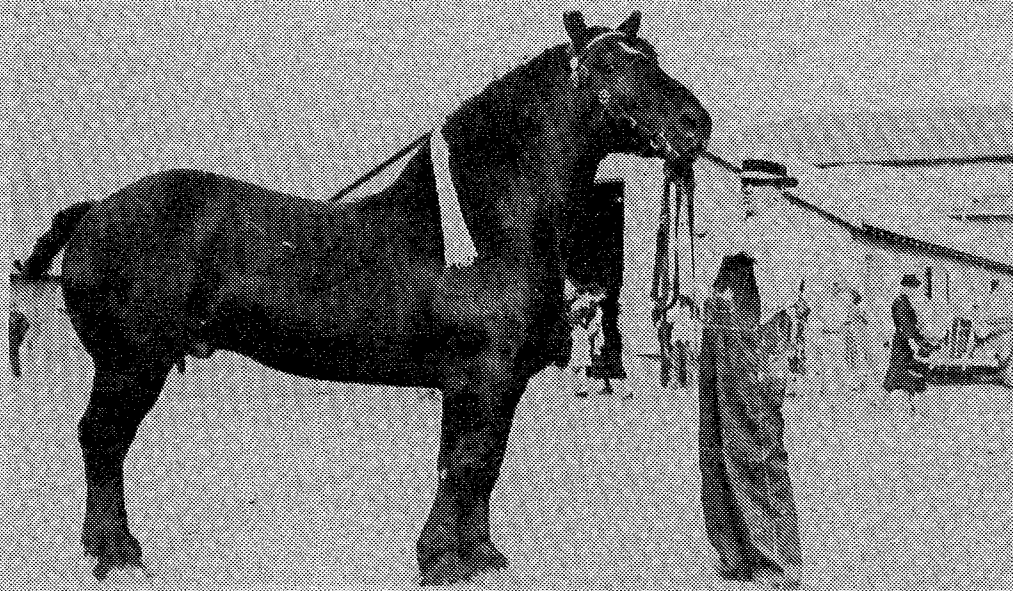

The horses were never too wild for him to tame down and he enjoyed doing just that. He used a bull whip and when he called the horses came. He had a special way of breaking his horses. They learned right away what "whoa" meant. One time Dale was with Grandpa and as they went into the yard he could hear two Stallions squelling. They had broke into pens together and were fighting. Grandpa set him up on the pig pen and got his bull whip. He was never afraid of anything. He used the bullwhip not on them but just by popping it he soon had them one at a time in their seperate pens where they belonged. There was only one that Uncle Eldon could remember that he couldn't break, and it would eat you. One mean bucking horse he had was sold to Ringling Brothers Circus. His name was Midnight. He is in the Cowboy Hall of Fame as the greatest bucking horse ever came out of the U. S. They are listed in the Hall of Fame records as 1st Midnight, 2nd Midnight, etc. This particular one was the first one just Midnight. He killed a rider and was retired. Fern says, "I remember grandpa had big stallion horses and how he would tell us to not get around the stallions. But us kids would go out and tease them. We would climb through the wooden fences and see who would dare go out the farthest and then those horses would come up and we would dart out through the fence. The stallions would rare up and come down with a thump."

He had the desire that every horse he owned should pull its load. He entered some of these horses in the state fair and won ribbons for them. He taught the horses how to work together. He had sixteen head of horses at one time that leveled farms. He used four head of horses on the grain header he used to have. He would go around and cut people's grain. This was a lot of work. There was no binding it was all loose. Uncle Eldon says, "I'll never forget that everyone came out to help one another. There was no money put out, the neighbors all just helped one another. For instance, when you wanted to plant something the Bishop, Walt Cook's dad, would say 'William, you come and get some seed out of my granary to plant and when you thrash it you can bring it back.' The header was big. It had a bull wheel and that is what you would guide it with."

He provided a lot of the horse power needed when the first Syracuse church, which later burned, was built. When it came to developing the school and improving the community by building canals to irrigate the land William O was there. Aunt Rhea says..."He worked for weeks on the Davis and Weber Canal at South Weber. It took hard labor by hand to build the canal around the hillside to bring water to the farms. I remember at this time father called on the phone for me to bring some hay to South Weber as they were out of hay for the horses. I hitched the faithful old team, March & May, and started for the destination early one morning. I was 12 years old. I went up over the sand hill where Hillfield is now, down over a steep hill into South Weber with a load of hay back up to the power plant and delivered the hay to father. I got back home after dark." His horses also provided most of the horsepower when many of the ditches were lined with cement. Being that the soil was so sandy they had to continually work trying to keep it from washing out as they did their irrigating. It sometimes made holes big enough for a house to fit into, so lining the ditches was important. Cement was poured from South Weber to Riverdale, Sunset and over to Layton. He also used them for several road projects. The area below where Uncle Marion and Aunt Rhea lived used to be big swamps. William O and some of the farmers built leavies through there so they could get water to the property. He was very instrumental in building a great community and making this valley the beautiful valley it is now.

William O Thurgood was a good farmer. One of the crops he grew a lot of was potatoes. Eldon says, "They used to call him the Potato King. He went back east and bought the potato seed. It would be shipped here then dad would sell it to people. He then would buy the potatoes back from them and ship them back east. He ran this operation for quite a few years. He built a potato cellar that would hold 11 train car loads of potatoes. The door going into it was about 8 to 9 feet tall and was real thick so it wouldn't freeze in the winter time. You could park the trucks in there. It had a cement floor and sides." This cellar was located close to where Uncle Eldon's home now is. William O planted about 100 acres of potatoes himself and furnished all the restaurants on 25th street in Ogden with potatoes. All the brothers, sisters, and older grandchildren would get together and cut up potatoes for seed. Fern remembers getting potatoes and skinning them off with her teeth and eating them raw with salt. All the kids would have a good time while they were in the cellar. Grandpa Thurgood would handle as many as 75 train car loads of potatoes a year. When Kenneth Hammon was sheriff, a man asked if he knew Will Thurgood, said he went to work for him at one time. Said he had the greatest bunch of kids. He grew potatoes and shipped them by rail. This man helped load the potatoes on the rail cars. The man went on to say, "He had two girls who would throw them in the car and he was to stack them, 100lb sacks of potatoes. One of the girls name was Reta and the other one Rhea, she had her leg cut off but it didn't stop her any. His boys would load the wagons and the two women would load the box car. They were a great family."

When William & Eliza lived in Syracuse his brother Samuel and his family lived next door, then Aunt Carrie and her family and then Uncle George and his family. On the 1900 Census, George was living with William and Eliza. Uncle George and William were very close to each other. When William and Eliza moved to Clearfield up where Uncle Eldon now lives, Uncle George and his family moved up there too and bought a home right next door. As Marjorie puts it, "Like Joseph and Hyrum as brothers, their lives were closely entwined and a deep love existed between the two." The cousins born to these two families were especially close to each other and have remained close throughout their lives.

The move to Clearfield in about 1920 made things quite different for the family. At this time William O bought about 1100 acres of land. He gave some to each child as they got married and then sold some of it. Uncle Eldon says there were a lot of red ants and sandburrs on the property. Many of the grandchildren remember all the sandburrs. The home in Syracuse as Aunt Ethel describes it was a beautiful home two stories high; the older children slept upstairs. It had indoor plumbing. Uncle Eldon describes what the water situation was like when they moved to Clearfield. "It was hard for mother to move out of a house that had inside plumbing and come up here. This place did not have any indoor plumbing. It had no water either. Mother had to carry all the water she used. The ground was wet all through this area and stagnant. Was not good. We had to go east of the main highway in Clearfield and put in a water system. There were about eight families that went on this new system and worked together to get it piped down here. Before we got it into the house Mother died." Beth, Aunt Hazel's daughter was five days old when Eliza died in 1926.

William & Eliza would take care of the less fortunate. Grandpa would go over to 25th steet and get men giving them a job.

They lived in the barn and grandma fed them. Uncle Eldon said, "They busted up more equipment than what he got out of them but he'd fix it. If he heard about someone getting out of jail and needing a job he would do the same thing. Give them a job, board and room, and pay them $1.00 a day. He always had a handout for anyone needing a job, a meal or a place to stay". When they moved to Clearfield they lived close to the railroad tracks. Their place was marked. Whatever William and Eliza had they were willing to share with others.

William O Thurgood died in 1938. These are some of the remarks given at the funeral of this great individual we have the privilege of referring to as Our Grandfather.

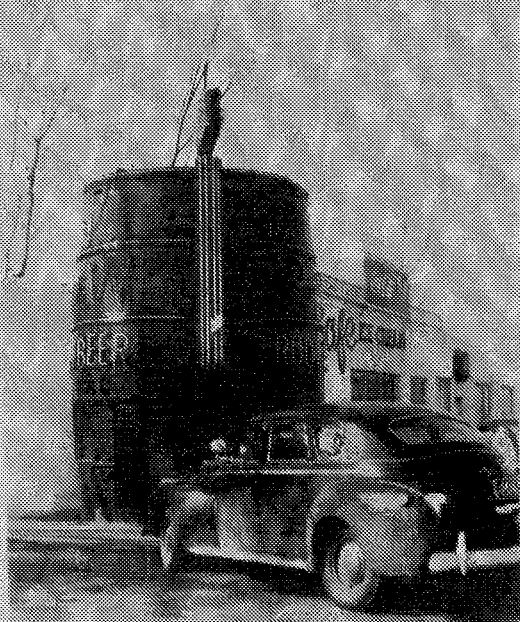

Amos Cook..."I was well acquainted with the family before they ever came out to this country. I knew their father and mother and I knew them when they were quite small. When we came out it was a privilege and pleasure to live close together and work together, do business together, hundreds of dollars of business we transacted together and they were always fair and square with me. They were all brotherly and kind to me, and for that reason I learned to love them and we grew up together, and lived as one big family. Neighbors in those days were scarce. You never saw a multitude of people like this audience. They weren't here. We had no church and no Sunday School, no gatherings of any kind. We appreciated one another more than we do now."

David Stoker..."I appreciate the friendship of this family, the Thurgood family. I have known them all of my life from childhood. I have associated with them on many occasions and then as bishop in the ward where Brother Thurgood resided. He always had confidence in me and he used to come to me and say he was willing and anxious to do anything he could. If there was anything he could do for the ward in money or otherwise he was always on hand to give his share."

A. O. Stoker..."He helped to build the Syracuse Ward. He helped to build this building. I think I am safe in saying that this family of Thurgoods has done as much as any family to build up this community. Brother Thurgood's first thought was for his family. He has left with you good, honest, honorable, industrious sons and daughters, a kind family, a family who are full of service. That was the life of this man. I don't suppose he has stood behind the pulpit many times, but I doubt if there is anyone who has known him not to help people in times of sickness. I have never known a man who has done as much hard manual labor and help to build this community as this who lies before us at this time. I believe he has worked hard to build roads, irrigation ditches and provide for the people who came into this community. I believe he has done as much as or more than any individual in this district to improve the seeds and livestock. Now I look upon him as a pioneer of this country; I look upon him as one of the men who have given his life. He never knew what quit was and he was a man who did not want to rust out--he wanted to wear out and I believe he wore out a little too young, perhaps through his hard work. I want to say to his family that they have a lot to remember, that he left them a heritage upon this earth and if they will take care of what he has left, there is no question in my mind that his salvation and their own may be secure. May the Lord bless them and bless all of you. And I know if Brother Thurgood was here he would say, 'Bishop, don't keep us too long'."

President A. D. Miller..."We have in this audience today men and women from various communities extending far to the north and south. Men and women, who have in their lives, come in contact with Brother William Thurgood; and in that contact and from that experience they have learned to honor and respect, him and you many friends and brothers and sisters who have gathered with us today show by your presence that esteem and friendship that you held him in. My experience with Brother Thurgood and his family has extended over many years. I had the honor of presiding over him as a bishop for a number of years. I had the honor of laboring with his family, being with them as they grew from childhood to manhood and womanhood, associating with his boys in the priesthood quorums, associating with his girls in the auxilliary organizations of the ward. Brother Thurgood helped to make this ward and this building. He has spent a great part of his life building up this ward."

George H. Bennett..."We thank thee for the example of thrift and honesty of this our brother."

William Leo Thurgood was William O & Eliza Jane's oldest child. He was born in 1896. A little about his life is taken from his history. "My occupation is farming. I love to work in the soil, love animals, especially horses. I have helped my father since I was a very young boy to work around horses & cows. When I was too small to handle a team alone I was taken along to help him, learning much from him. I also helped him when he was buying and selling potatoes, done alot of his weighing" Leo kept grandpa's books. He was always ready to help the sick, a neighbor in need, or someone who could not understand the beauties of the gospel. Leo died at an early age in 1941. These are a few of the comments made by the speakers at his funeral. "His life was an open book. When you met him one weekday, it was exactly as you would meet him on Sunday. Leo was matured, as you might say, in early manhood. He assumed a lot of responsibility when in his teens. His father entrusted him with his business affairs and different kinds of work and I used to think sometimes probably he was overloaded both in mind and in body because of the work that was assigned to him, but he never complained. He was humble in his nature...Brother Leo's philosophy of life was far above the ordinary man. He had such an ever present faith in the Gospel of the Master that doubt had no part in his being. In his early childhood he had implanted in his soul the marks of parental affections and obedience that carried with him through life...God never made a finer or better boy than William Leo Thurgood...He never disobeyed his parents or gave them any cause for worry. He lived with us and yet apart from us. It always seemed to me that he was far in the lead of most of us. He had a poise and dignity of character that lifted him above the shallows of the present life."

Hazel Emily Thurgood their 2nd child and 1st daughter was born in 1899. When she was little she used to spend quite a lot of time with her grandparents in Bountiful. She helped her mother more with the cooking and cleaning. She loved to quilt and was a friendly and willing person. Her husband Richard Hamblin, was sick and bedfast for some time. He died in 1938 leaving her with six children to raise. They spent a lot of time at the other brother and sisters homes after that. Aunt Hazel could play the piano, organ, and harmonica. She was still playing in her later years and played several of the church hymns on the harmonica. She had a heart of gold and a sweet, kind disposition.

Sarah Rhea was born in 1901. She helped grandpa a lot. She states in her history, "It was always my pleasure to be on the wagon with father when the wild horses were being broke. I never thought then what a worry this must have been to mother. As I look back over my life I realize how good the Lord has been to me to protect me as he has on many occasions. I recall how dangerous the many trips with the horses and wagon I would go on, were." She married Marion Hammon and he was a sheepherder and worked with cattle. They spent a lot of time in the mountains. They stayed at grandpa's and grandma's quite a lot. Josie & Junior were born at grandpa's and grandma's and they were staying there when grandma died. They practically lived with them in the winter time. The following was part of Aunt Rhea's history.

"Disobedience...a word which has always stood out in my mind because of the fact that it was a very dear price that I paid by disobeying my dear mother. Today it being Sunday and a very beautiful day Oct 30, 1960, I had planned to go to Sunday School but Marion decided to ride to the canyon with the boys, Kenneth & Howard, to go deer hunting. So I drove the car to Syracuse and went to the old home where I was born. I pulled to the side of the road to have a good look at the place which has always been a part of me. In the field back of the house there is a part of me buried. Because of being disobedient at the age of 5 years old and not doing as my dear mother had told me I had met with an accident and lost my leg in a mowing machine. I shall never forget her calling me to come back or I may get hurt. Arnold was a baby of 6 mo. old and she called to me twice. I recall so well after 55 years of stumbling along life's path blaming no one but myself for not obeying my dear mother. Not complaining because I surely have been blessed so very much with a wonderful mother, father, brothers, sisters, dear friends and a wonderful husband & companion."

Leo was 10 years old at the time and Aunt Hazel was taking some water to him. He was mowing hay. Rhea followed along and got too close to the mower and her leg was cut off above the ankle. Uncle Eldon said he didn't think Leo ever got over this incident. Rhea did not let having a wooden leg dampen her spirits. She was a very jolly person and Uncle Arnold said she could dance on her wooden leg as good as any girl could dance on their real one. Grandpa Thurgood always made sure Rhea had wooden legs built for her as she was growing up and they were kept in good repair. When grandpa died he left funds for Rhea to take care of the upkeep of her leg. Just before Rhea died she had some problems with her good leg and it too was amputated a few years before her death. This is another thought Aunt Rhea had in her history. "Far better to take from man his flocks or herds, his lands or wealth, even his sight or limbs than to be responsible for the loss of his faith."

Reta was born in 1904. She was a hard worker. As soon as her indoor duties were done, she would be working outdoors. She milked the cows and mowed and raked hay. She had a very sweet and pleasant personality. She and Rhea were very close to each other. She married Ralph Dawson who was a farmer. Leo, Rhea, and Reta lived just a short ways from each other. Whenever Ralph, Uncle Bud we called him, was out in the field doing something you could count on Aunt Rita being close by. Aunt Rita used to make butter by shaking the cream in a quart jar. I can still see her shaking the bottle for her butter.

John Arnold was born in 1906. Arnold and Leo did a lot of work together. They were named as the executors in Grandpa's will. They did a lot of things to try and look out for the welfare of their sisters and their families. Uncle Arnold said on a tape made a short time before his death, "We very seldom had a Christmas tree when I was growing up. If we did it was decorated with popcorn and paper rings. We had small candles that would burn only for a short while. Some of the presents we might get were a saddle for a small horse, or a small red wagon." The Mr. Young who was their hired man when Arnold was a boy came to he and Aunt Ellen's place when Carol was a baby and lived in a trailer parked on the east side of their house for a short time. When Arnold was younger he used to take Rhea & Rita to Hooper to the dance. They would usually find a ride home with a boyfriend and leave Arnold to come home alone. One night, Arnold was so tired he fell asleep and the horses took him in the wrong direction. The girls got home first and their dad was very upset. He was ready to go look for him. Rhea could ride a horse very well, she bridled one up and rode off to find Arnold. Uncle Arnold was on his mission in Nevada when his mother died. He came home long enough to attend the funeral.

Ethel was born in 1908. She did a lot of things to help the other members of the family. Effie can remember going over to her place and staying when she had her first baby, Alene. Doris wrote, "Aunt Ethel's home was like going to heaven. She had everything. A electric stove, a bathroom, beautiful furniture, flowers, lawn, a basement with fruit on neat shelves, milk in the refrigerator. I felt like a queen at her home." She was usually the one who decorated the Christmas trees at grandpa & grandma's place. She married Milton Call. She did lots of sewing, handiwork, and quilting. She was very fussy about how things were done and liked things to look just right. She was always surrounded by beautiful things. She and Uncle Milton worked hard to have the things they had. They were good organizers. Her health failed as she got older and a beautiful example of love, compassion, and devotion to your companion was set for everyone by Uncle Milton as he so tenderly and thoughtfully took care of her every need. One time when we visited them he mentioned that she had not eaten a bite of food except what he had fed her for like 15 years. Never heard him complain; he just patiently did what he could and that was a lot.

Eldon Thurgood was born in 1913. He is the only one still living at this printing 1991. We want him to know how much we all love and appreciate him. So thankful for the input he has been able to give us for this history. Following are some incidents he remembered besides the ones already recorded. When he was a young boy he remembers going with his parents and Uncle Joe and Aunt Carrie Esthope over to Ogden in a bobsled. On the way home in the vicinity where Uncle Bud used to live, someone scared the horses, which were a pair of new colts. Uncle Joe Esthope threw coal at whoever was scaring them. Found out years later after Rita & Bud were married, that it was Uncle Bud who loved to scare the horses as they were on the road by his place.

Another time he says there were these two other kids who were twins. His dad took one to work with them on the farm and Uncle Marion took the other one. They were about Uncle Eldon's age of 15 and they got the idea one day in the spring that they were going to get rich catching skunks. When the skunks would stick their head out from their holes they would hit them over the head with a stick. They tied them all together and threw them over Uncle Eldon's horse named Squealer. The horse threw the boys and skunks off. They got home and Aunt Ethel met them. She told them they were not coming in the house and to take their clothes off and bury them. They had the whole neighborhood upset with them. They tried smoking their clothes with leaves and everything, but finally did end up burying them. The skunks hides were worth alot but that was the end of their skunk hunting.

Uncle Eldon had a lot of adventures with his horse Squealer. He said there were no horses around that could outrun him, he just wouldn't let them, and no one could catch him without using some oats or such. When they were driving cattle and if Squealer decided to make a sharp turn you had to be ready or off you would go every time. Then, if you were not very quick, Squealer would take off for home and leave you to walk. Squealer had a way of getting you off him if he wanted to. You had to be ready for the things he would do. One time Uncle Eldon was hurrying to head off some cows and Squealer stopped suddenly. Eldon went right over the horse's head and landed in a big patch of ripe sandburs. Eldon says he got the maddest he ever has gotten. He said he could have bit Squealers ear off. Another time Uncle Eldon said he was bringing cattle up the road by Bill Knighton's and they started to go into his place. The road then was gravel and Eldon was going real fast trying to get ahead of the cattle. One cow came right across the rode in front of him and the horse smacked into her. Eldon went flying. Bill Knighton came out and thought Eldon was dead. Eldon had to get up fast to get Squealer before he got away. He didn't even take time to think that he might be hurt. They didn't have paved roads in the area until about 1926, and then it was only the main ones.

Uncle Eldon was the one that introduced Roy Thurgood and his wife Donna. Roy wasn't that much younger than Eldon and they used to do things together. Eldon was only 13 years old when his mother died. He was rather lost for some time after that. He really needed his mother to be there and missed her a great deal.

Many of the grandchildren remembered the ranch that William O had at Huntsville. It had a small cabin and four springs on it. The whole family would go up there and spend a few days. The roads were all dirt or gravel then. They would drive the cattle up in the spring time and leave them till fall. Sometimes they would have problems with the cattle getting in the river along the road and drowning. The ranch had a big watering trough on it and we'd fill it full of watermelons. I can remember going up there in the back of the cattle truck.

Following are some other remembrances some of the grandchildren have of life with their parents & grandparents.

Leland Hamblin says, "Grandpa always called Grandma Thurgood wife. He'd say 'Come here wife and do this wife'." He was the first grandchild.

Fern Hamblin ~~was~~ had these comments, "I am the third grandchild of William O & Eliza Jane. I can remember Grandma a little bit. She was in bed sick, and she patted the bed to have me come and talk to her. She looked so fragil. When she died they brought the casket over to our place because mama had just had Beth and was still in bed." They used to keep you in bed about ten days after having a baby. Fern goes on to say, "Grandpa was a wonderful Grandpa. In the late 1930's I was 15 years old and close to dating age. My dad, Richard Hamblin, was really sick and I was going to work as a car hop. It was becoming a popular thing for a girl to do. Grandpa found out and asked me how much I would be making an hour. I said I didn't know. Grandpa said, 'You find out and I will pay you that much if you stay home and help your mom'. He was concerned about how I was going to be treated by the men and boys."

Several grandchildren remembered the Christmases at their grandparents house. They usually had a Christmas Tree by that time, and Santa came to visit passing out popcorn balls and gifts. Some of them remember the silver dollar each one would get each Christmas. Doris Thurgood Williams remembered having oyster stew and she thought it was delicious. Grandpa played the accordian and they all sang songs. At one party the Montgomery family came and sang songs. They were a very talanted family and everyone enjoyed that.

Some of the other things Doris remembered were, "I only have one recollection of Grandma Thurgood. I remember there was a rocking chair and she was tending me. After Grandma died going to Grandpa's house was quite different. Granddad's greatest love was his horses and he passed that love on to my dad. They took great pride in their horses. Granddad really counted on my dad for support & help. Sometimes it was more like dad was the father and grandpa the son. Dad was more serious and cautious. Granddad was not afraid of anything and tended to take more risks.

"It was a real treat for me to go to Aunt Ellen's & Aunt Ethel's. They had kids the age for me to tend so I spent a lot of time at their places. I had a great love for all my aunts and uncles. It was so easy to run up to Aunt Rhea's and Reta's. They each had a special place in my heart. Aunt Rhea liked me to comb her hair and fix it. Uncle Marion was always a easy touch. If I was ever afraid to ask Dad for something I would go to Uncle Marion. One day in my later years I swiped Dales car and went to my friends place over in Clinton. They only had sand roads then and it was like driving through deep snow. I got stuck. I was afraid to go tell Dad because I knew I would be in trouble. So I went and got Uncle Marion to pull me out. He laughed about it for years and didn't let me live it down. I looked forward to being at Aunt Reta's and Uncle Bud's home. They always had such good things to eat. Aunt Reta made the best milk gravy in the world. They had a phonograph that played records and music came out. I thought it was really neat to hear that music. We used to play cards with Uncle Bud. He really taught me a lot and I enjoyed time spent there. Just about every Saturday after they got a car Jane would come down and ask me to go to town with them to see a show. It was really great. Aunt Reta worked hard. She helped Uncle Bud do everything; milk the cows, farm, do chores, whatever. I was always welcome in their home. Jane and I spent hours playing house either at my place or hers. We would draw rooms in the dirt out under our trees. What beautiful homes we used to have and what imaginations. Then if things got dull we would ride horses and have races. I had a pony, a black & white shetland. She wouldn't let everyone bridle her. She would lay back her ears and try to bite but I never had trouble with her. Jane and I would go up to Uncle Arnold's. She could beat me on the way up because my horse didn't want to leave home but when we started back I could beat her because my horse wanted to go home. We used to herd cows up that sandy road where Jane Dawson Heslop lives now.

"In those days if people got sick with a communicable disease they quarantined the whole family. One time some of the family had scarlet fever and the others all had to go to Grandpa Thurgood's and stay till the sick ones got well. Mother stayed with the sick ones but the rest of us had to leave. One Easter I had the chicken pox and we had been quarantined. I watched out the bedroom window as all the kids went past with their Easter baskets. I was feeling pretty low and here came Jane down the road with a beautiful Easter basket. She left it outside and mother went out and brought it into me. This is the kind of relationship we had with our cousins."

Roy Thurgood, before he died, talked about William O and his cars; especially learning to drive them. His first car was a Studebaker. When Grandpa was learning to drive he would forget he was not driving a horse. When he wanted to stop instead of remembering to push on the brake, he would pull back on the steering wheel and hollar "Whoa! Whoa!" They had a few skirmishes at that time. Uncle Eldon said one time his dad was driving a car and went around a corner. Eldon fell out and granddad didn't even know he had fallen out. Roy used to read for grandpa and write letters for him.

Several of the grandchildren remembered Grandpa Thurgood taking them to the circus in Ogden. Every year they would go and then eat at the Senate Cafe. Since Grandpa furnished the potatoes for several of the restaurants, when he went there to eat, those with him were treated special.

They also went deer hunting together. Uncle Eldon rode an old grey mare with the harness on it in later years. One time they forgot their milk, so went out and milked a mare. She had a colt which was just getting weaned. On one of these deer hunting trips it got so cold the water was froze solid in the morning. Uncle Bud's false teeth were also frozen solid in his cup of water.

Dale could remember playing outside one time at Grandpa and Grandma's. A horse came running down the road. Someone had tied tin cans to its tail. Grandma ran out and grabbed him pushing him inside the house, and the horse ran its head right through the window of the house. It was so scared!

The brothers and sisters, children of William O & Eliza Jane took some trips together. One place they went was Yellowstone.

Howard Hammon says he rode a horse to elementary school in Syracuse. He remembers going through snow drifts on his horse. Later he road a school bus they called the Tin Can. This bus must have been quite the bus. I have heard stories of what some of the older boys used to do with it. If enough of them got in the back of the bus they could lift the front end right up off the road. This made it impossible for the bus driver to guide the bus. Some of the teachers at Syracuse taught the children of William O & Eliza Jane, their grandchildren and their great grandchildren.

Beth Hamblin Bottomly said, "Grandpa Thurgood was a regular visitor in our home. He gave a lot of help and advice after the death of papa. I heard him say to my mother, 'Keep them busy (meaning us) even if you have them dig a hole and fill it in again'."

I recall my dad had a beautiful experience of visiting with Grandma Thurgood in heaven and brought back a message for Grandpa Thurgood. Grandpa Thurgood talked alone with my dad and had a tear stained face when he came out of the room. The night before my fathers funeral Macey Echart, a lady friend of Grandpa's took me to her home to spend the night and get ready for the funeral the next day. Right after my dad died Grandpa Thurgood told us of a dream he had. He said he had a beautiful white shirt on, the whitest he had ever seen. A month later our Grandpa Thurgood died."

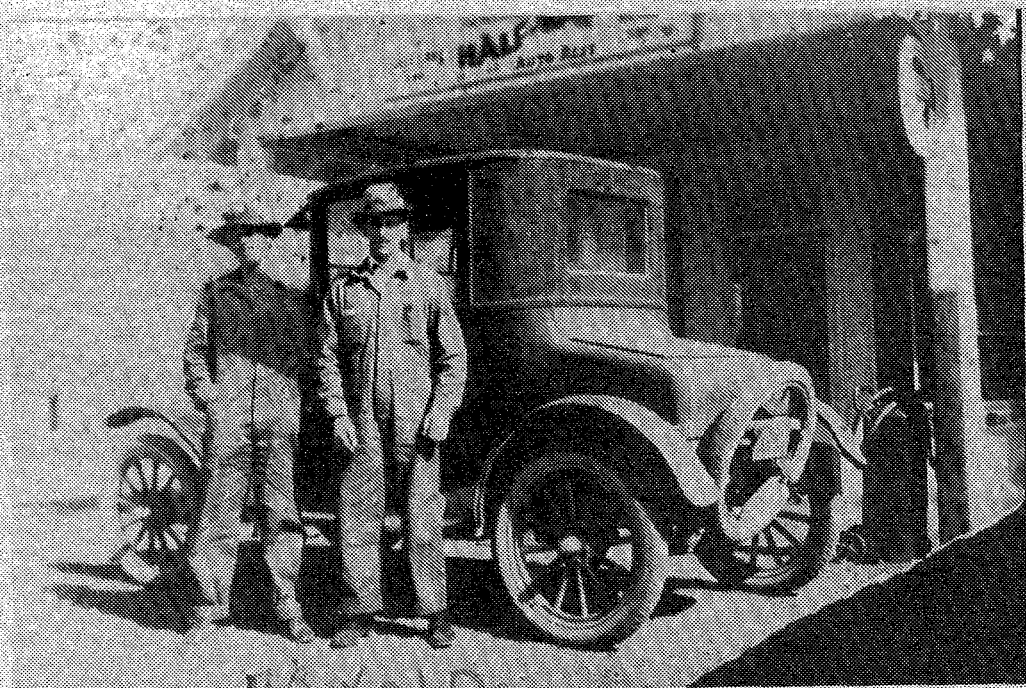

Macey Echart was a close friend of Grandpa's for some time after grandma died. Several of the grandchildren remembered her. Kenneth Hammon said, "Grandpa Thurgood always made you feel like you were the greatest kid on earth. He loved his grandkids. Always made you feel great and encouraged education because he didn't get one. One of the greatest guys on earth."

William O and Eliza Jane's children were all hard workers. They worked together even after they were married.

We, the cousins, had a choice experience when we met for a get together in Sept 1991, at Morgan, Utah. Many of us younger ones stated we learned more about these choice grandparents, than we had ever known before. It seemed the ones who were still very young when Grandpa died, never did hear about some of the good things they did and accomplishments they made. What a choice experience we had at that get-together as we remembered bygone days and asked numerous questions.

William O Thurgood's father was Thomas Thurgood. His father was Samuel Thurgood. During the time he was growing up at Essex, England, they were having very hard times. Men in full employment were unable to purchase out of a full weekly wage the bare necessities of existence. In the spring of 1798 Napoleon was threatening the southeastern part of England with invasion. Thousands of troops were mobilized and moved into Essex. They had decided if the invasion took place they were going to drive all the cattle from the coastal areas, destroy the crops, and remove the inhabitants further inland. The danger passed away only to be followed by famine. The year 1801 was one of the worst periods recorded in the history of Terling. Many people were dying and others were moving, trying to find employment. After a few years Samuel moved to London and worked as a waiter. He married Elizabeth Worville from Oxfordshire at London in 1833, and they had seven children...five of whom came to America. He left this earthly existence in 1849 of consumption, which was a wasting disease of the lungs possibly T. B. He had this for a year before he died. His father was John Thurgood who was born at Terling in 1762.

John Thurgood married his 1st cousin Mary Dams at Fairstead, Essex, England in 1786. She was the daughter of John's mother's brother. Their children were all christened at Hatfield Pervail. In 1786 the American War of Independance ended. The effects of this war left the people in this area in very poor circumstances. Many people were on relief, the earnings were poor, and food was scarce and expensive. One third of the entire population at Terling were in destitute condition. It was very difficult to get soap, which they made from the ashes of the green fern. As a result they only had wash day every five weeks. There is on record, in the cities around there at this time, 50% of everyone born died under the age of two, and another 11% died before reaching the age of five. John's father was Thomas Thurgood.

Thomas Thurgood was christened at Terling in 1734. His wife Ann Dams and he had 13 children born at Terling between 1756-1777. In 1775 Ann's uncle Thomas Dams left a will and granted to Thomas Thurgood, his wife, and her brother Thomas Dams a house. Ann Dams' father was John Dams.

John Dams was christened at Terling in 1716. Not only was his daughter one of our great grandparents, but also his son. He had four other brothers and sisters. One was christened and buried at Terling in 1705 and the others were all christened together with John in 1716. John Dams was married to Ann Bridgeman in 1734. His parents were Thomas Dams and Mary Johanna Reary.

Mary Johanna Reary was the daughter of Richard Reary. He was a nonconformist and so some of the children's records are not found in the Church of England parish registers. The records are a little confusing concerning Johanna's name. She was married as Mary Johanna Reary but in her father's will, which was probated in 1680, he names his wife Sarah, daughters Anne, Alice, Margaret, Sarah, Mary, and Johanna. There were two brothers both named Richard. One died at the age of four and one at the age of ten. There were also two other children who were stillborns.

Richard Reary lived at Terling but also owned property at Mark Tey, Essex, England. He was a millwright which meant he built mills and worked with machinery. He did not support the practices and beliefs of the Church of England. There were too many practices that did not follow the Bible teachings. Some of the time they were punished severely for their religious beliefs. There are on record several instances of him being summoned to appear before the Ecclesiastical Courts of England. These are some of the dates of those court appearances: June 1663, June, July, and September 1670. On the latest occasion no verdict is recorded but he did escape being excommunicated in Nov. 1670. Others who were before the court on the same day were not as fortunate. I could tell from the different records I have researched that he loved his family very much. Richard's daughter, as previously mentioned, Mary Johanna Reary married Thomas Dams and his mother was Martha Fincham. Her father was Thomas Fincham.

Thomas Fincham was also a double grandparent, so to speak. Ann Bridgeman who married John Dams was also his great granddaughter. When he lived at Terling in the 1600's he was a house carpenter. He left a will dated 11 Nov 1670. One of the things that touched me a lot, as I read this will, was the way he always referred to his wife as "My beloved Barbara". Her father was Jeffry Boozy.

Jeffery Boozy was christened at Terling in 1577. He too is a double grandparent. His daughter married Christopher Fincham who was a brother to Thomas Fincham. Jeffery Boozy was a yeoman, which meant that he owned a small amount of land and farmed it. He was a respectable citizen of Terling. Their houses at that time were of timber, clay and thatched. They were dark, draughty and cheerless. The living room was also the family workshop and the ceiling was the roof. Chimneys and fireplaces were luxuries of the principal inhabitants and most of the people had to be content for heating by burning wood on an instrument known as a firepan, which was a portable iron dish on legs. Every one over the age of 16 had to go to church or they were frequently punished. It was during this time period at Terling, 1611, that they recieved their first copy of the Bible for their parish church. This was a new translation known as the King James Version and a copy of this new Bible was placed in every parish in England. This was a big step for them, because now they could study the Bible for the first time by themselves. Jeffery's father was William Bowsie.

William Bowsie was Christened at Terling in 1553. His wife was Catherine Dagnet. They had nine children. There was a lot of lawlessness going on at Terling during this time period. The control that Steward the Bishop or Norwich had on Terling, and the surrounding area was destroyed in 1537. The land was passed into the hands of a number of private citizens. They were grabbing up land and raiding their neighbors property. His wife's father, Christopher Dagnet, had his home entered and he and his wife were assaulted. Some of their possessions were taken. Christopher had a will dated 1581 and William was named as one of the heirs.

Christopher Dagnet was married at Terling to Florence Dagnet in 1547. He and his wife had nine children and lived through some trying times. He too was a farmer. During the time he lived at Terling the Settlement Act was introduced. If there were any poor people living within the boundaries of a certain parish the people there had to take care of them. This Settlement Act was intended to immobilize the poor people and prevent them from leaving their home parish without a certificate of settlement signed by the church wardens and local Justice of the Peace. This certificate acknowledged they were members of their parish and they accepted liability claims for their sustenance. To be discovered abroad without such a certificate or means of support was likely to involve a poor traveller being classified as a vagrant and they were whipped and escorted back to their home parish or the last place of settlement. They were stripped, both men and women, from the waist upwards, bound to the tail of a cart, and whipped until their bodies were bloody. They remained lashed to the cart until they arrived at the house of the constable of the adjoining village. As the century advanced, branding, slavery, and death for attempting to escape the law were added to the punishment. In order to escape the severity of the law poor persons hid themselves by day and traveled by night. There are many records of poor people who died from exposure and starvation and whose bodies were found in the parish and buried, "as a stranger who died on the highway, or in a barn or a shed". Christopher Dagnet was buried at Terling in 1582.

On the Thurgood line of our Genealogy we have records back to Christopher Dagnet in 1547. In recent family history research, there is great evidence that the Thurgood line came from a royal line like the Kynastons and Lamberts. We have a great heritage to be proud of. We are blessed to have the records we have of our ancestors preserved for us. One quotation I have enjoyed over the years is "A father and mother do not cease to be a father and mother just because they have gone to another existence." I believe these noble people are aware of what we are doing, what are progress here on earth is. And as I looked over the faces of the cousins who were able to meet at Morgan in Sept 1990, I sensed that it would only be a short time till most of us will be looking back at our posterity and viewing their progress in this existence. I feel blessed in having the heritage we have that helped in their own time and existence to prepare the way for us.

THE FAMILY

"One of the wonderful things of life is a sense of belonging. And one of the most wonderful things to belong to is a loyal and affectionate family, a family who have each their own individual activities and interests but who feel a real oneness with one another. There is much that without it is missed.

"There are so many things to join, so many things to do, so many things to take us away, but a loving, loyal family is still one of the most wonderful things in the world to belong to. Families differ. They differ in their affections. They differ in their demonstrativeness. They differ in their sharing of confidences and interests and activities.

"Families are sometimes abused, sometimes slighted, and sometimes seem to reserve the right to quarrel and criticize one another, and often take each other for granted. But let some need arise, some tragedy threaten, some sorrow come, some loss or loneliness and thoughts turn homeward; hearts and arms are opened; and families sense their oneness and their common claims and causes.

"Parents, of course, are the ones mostly who keep families close, but, even after parents have left this life, families ought to rally round one another and keep close and not pull apart, and always preserve a gathering place, and carry on traditions and see that the next generation becomes acquainted with one another...for this sense of belonging, this "togetherness" is a source of strength, of comfort, of safety and security, of peace and protection.

"And he who has it has more to live up to, more to account for, more to keep him in faith and high purpose."

President Gordon B. Hinckley said, "It is good to look to the past to gain appreciation for the present and perspective for the future. It is good to look upon the virtues of those who have gone before, to gain strength for whatever lies ahead. It is good to reflect upon the work of those who labored so hard and gained so little in this world, but out of whose dreams and early plans, so well nurtured, has come a great harvest of which we are the beneficiaries. Their tremendous example can become a compelling motivation for us all, for each of us is a pioneer in his own life."

How thankful I am for my family. I appreciate so much all the help from everyone in obtaining information, pictures, stories, etc. for this history, and for my family who helped to put it together. It is my sincere desire that each of us will prize our heritage. That each of us will have the opportunity of meeting with our family members again. That each of us will be able to leave to our posterity some of the same blessings we have received, as good of an example as we had, good memories, a Bountiful Heritage. DLP

PEDIGREE CHARTS & FAMILY GROUP SHEETS

Explanations...

Pedigree chart, no number..Arranged so younger generations could fill in and see where they fit into their Bountiful Heritage. Family group sheets behind this page are those of William O Thurgood & Eliza Jane Kynaston and their children. They have abt 635 decendants. Last one in this section is of John Kynaston & Emily Gorringe.

Pedigree charts #1 - #13 are of the direct Thurgood line. Family group sheets are behind the pedigree chart with their name on it.

I was going to include all the family group sheets and pedigree charts for the Worvills, Kynastons, Banks etc., but as you can see from the following it would have increased the cost of the history considerably, so decided to have these seperate. Those who want copies of these, or a disk copy for computers, let me know and I will be glad to provide them for you.

The last three pedigree charts are the first ones for the Banks, Kynaston, Gorringe lines. The Worville charts are included in the Thurgood group above; but only the charts, not the family group sheets.

Worville & Plumb line	7 family group sheets.
Banks & Joslin line	18 family group sheets.
Kynaston & Kynaston line	33 family group sheets.

Back to year 1110 and could be back further in just a few more years. Being worked on as a special project at Family History Center in Salt Lake.

Gorringe-Lambert & Burgess 46 family group sheets.

Many of these lines also run into royalty lines. I am now working on the Lambert line, like we did on the Kynaston, and shortly will have some names ready for temple work. We have probably done temple work for abt 600 individuals on the Kynaston line over the past year. These were done in Idaho Falls, Ogden, Salt Lake, Jordon River, Boise, and Dallas temples, by relatives in those areas.

I am sure there are other of our lines which connect with information in the royalty project. I know there are files for Joslin, Banks, Gorringe, Thurgood. Some of these files are just sitting down there waiting to be put on family group sheets etc., and processed.

The above number of family group sheets available do not represent a large number, but when you start to figure with this computer program each family takes at least 2 sheets and with very large families 4-6 sheets. Thats when the number of sheets to include in this history start adding up. Thanks to everyone DLP
